Question: Why Do Catholics Baptize Babies?

Answer: For adults who want to be baptized, the celebration only takes place after a long, guided, and thoughtful process through the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults. This is also true for many Protestant Christians, who are baptized later in life, often after a personal, transforming religious experience. So, it seems fair to ask why our Catholic tradition includes infant baptism. After all, if we make adults who want to become Catholic wait months and even years as they grow in their understanding of Christ and his teachings, why should babies — who “do nothing” — be baptized?

Our custom of infant baptism dates back to the earliest days of the Church, when St. Paul baptized entire households, including, we presume, children (see Acts 16:15, 33; 18:8). That had become common practice by the second century. When Christianity was legalized 200 years later, infant baptism became the normal practice throughout the Church.

We recognize that in Baptism, we are given the grace to overcome original sin — the human tendency to choose ourselves and our own wills over God — and to become members of the Church. This is the gift we give to infants in Baptism.

In its essence, the baptism of infants also reminds us adult Christians that the gift of salvation and membership in the Church (i.e., the Body of Christ) is God's initiative. It is freely offered to us, regardless of where we might be in life's journey. Salvation isn't something we earn. Instead, we see that Baptism is the beginning of a lifelong process of growing into the kind of disciples that Jesus wants us to be. ©LPi

Prayer for Understanding, Compassion, Justice, and Peace

Two Sundays ago, Bishop da Cunha invited clergy and religious leaders from throughout Southeastern Massachusetts to join in a prayer service for peace and justice in the face of the unrest that has resulted from the unnecessary death of George Floyd. Participating in the service was Rabbi Raphael Kanter from the Tifereth Israel Congregation in New Bedford who composed and shared the following prayer:

I don't know what it feels like to be a black man or woman in America.
I don't know what it feels like to be judged by the color of my skin.
I don't know what it feels like to wear a hoodie and be considered a menace.
I don't know what it feels like to go for a jog and fear someone may think I am a threat.
I don't know what it feels like to be pulled over by Police and worry I may be shot.
I don't know what it feels like to teach my 16-year-old son how to be pulled over for being a person of color.
I don't know what it feels like to have someone threaten to call the authorities and specify my race with the expectation that I will be harmed.
I don't know what it feels like to experience police officers as a threat to my existence.
I don't know what it feels like to suffer centuries-old racism embedded in so much of America.
I don't know what it feels like to live in fear each day because of the color of my skin.
I don't know what it feels like to not be able to breathe, like George Floyd.

Here is what I do know; that we must remember today and every day that every human being is created in the image of God and is of infinite value. White prejudice and racism is a lifelong fight that must be eradicated from each and every one of us. God, as we condemn the murder of George Floyd we know with your presence guiding us, we can build a world, and a country, in which the dignity of People of Color is affirmed and cherished.

The modern-day Jewish Prophet Rabbi Abraham Joshua Heschel, taught: "There is an evil which most of us condone and are even guilty of: indifference to evil. We remain neutral, impartial, and not easily moved by the wrongs done to other people. Indifference to evil is more insidious than evil itself; it is more universal, more contagious, more dangerous." We hear your word in his words and they must enter our heart that we must not remain neutral and impartial in the face of the continued devaluation of black bodies and acknowledge the evil that lives among us that would allow a policeman to believe that this murder would be condoned. We can do this if we truly sense your presence. Alohaynu Velohai Avoteynu, Our God, and God of our Ancestors give us a new heart, a heart that turns to your truth, a heart filled with peace and justice. If we truly walk in your paths then the right of protestors to free speech will be unimpeded and every citizen will raise their voice in protest until we see changes and policies that show that Black Lives Do Matter. We pray now for the day when the words of the psalmist become a reality:

"How good and how pleasant it is when brothers and sisters dwell together in unity." Amen
